

MOURNING MULTITUDES

Witness Funeral Services Over Remains of Cardinal Manning

AT BROMPTON ORATORY.

The Queen and the Prince and Princess of Wales were represented by High Members of Their Households. Church and State Dignitaries Present—The Tribute of the People to One who was Their Friend.

LONDON, Jan. 21.—The funeral services over the remains of Cardinal Manning were held in the Brompton Oratory today.

Admission to the oratory was by ticket only, for it would have been utterly impossible for the structure to contain a hundredth part of the vast crowd who were desirous of paying a last token of respect to the dead prelate. Notwithstanding the miserable weather, the city being surrounded by fog, which seemed to penetrate with its chilliness and dampness through the heaviest clothing, the crowd at an early hour began to gather in the vicinity of the oratory, and every minute it gained in size. It was composed largely of workmen and their families, and on every side could be heard expressions of love for the man who had devoted so much of his time and talents to bringing about a betterment in their condition. "He was good to the poor," many people in the throng were heard to exclaim. So dense was the crowd and so thick was the fog that traffic in the vicinity of the oratory was brought to a standstill. Hundreds of mounted policemen and constables on foot were present to maintain order, but they were seldom called upon to do more than speak gently to the crowd to have their orders obeyed.

At 5 o'clock this morning matins and other services were said in the oratory, where the body had been lying in state during yesterday, having been removed from Westminster on Tuesday night. When the solemn mass of requiem was commenced the oratory was filled with notable personages, representing the church, the state and all political parties. The Queen and the Prince and Princess of Wales were represented by high members of their households. All the ambassadors of foreign powers were present also.

The coffin reposed in front of the altar. It was enveloped in a black pall ornamented with gold crosses, crimson cords and a fringe of bullion. Surmounting the coffin was the hat of the Cardinal. The altar was draped in black, the only ornament visible being a solitary gold cross. The Right Rev. John Cutler, Bishop of Newport and Monmouth, preached the funeral sermon. He opened his remarks with a touching tribute to the late Duke of Clarence and Avondale. He said that an era had closed in the history of Catholicism in England with the death of Cardinal Manning, and a new one had opened. He made special reference to the Cardinal's efforts to secure the Catholic education of children, and declared that the struggle was not yet over. He added that perhaps the hottest and deadliest hour of the education battle, which is raging throughout the world, would soon be fought.

The music throughout the service was splendidly rendered. Mr. Santley, the well known baritone, sang the "Dies Ira." Among those who occupied the front pews were the Duke of Norfolk, the Marquis of Ripon, the Marquis of Bute, Lord Howard of Glossop, Mr. Burdett-Coutt, Mr. Justin McCarthy, Mr. William O'Brien, Mr. John Dillon and Mr. Thomas Sexton.

At the conclusion of the services the body of the late cardinal was removed to the hearse, and the procession moved to Kensal Green cemetery. It was led by the clergy, and included distinguished members of the nobility, members of parliament, delegates of temperance societies, labor bodies, etc. Among the latter were representatives of the dockers' and stevedores' unions. Deputations from various charitable societies were also included. Enormous crowds lined the streets along the route and all heads were bared as the funeral cortege passed. The procession was one of the largest ever witnessed in London.

When the funeral cortege reached the cemetery the burial services of the Roman Catholic church were performed, and then the remains of the cardinal were interred.

Crew Shipwrecked.

LEWES, DEL., Jan. 21.—The British schooner Mary Rogers, of Cape Breton, came in to the capes during a driving snow and anchored outside the lower end of the breakwater. At daylight she broke her chain, struck on the "stone pile" and was totally wrecked. Her crew reached the "stone pile" in safety, except William Landrey, who sustained injuries that soon caused death. The Lewes life-saving crew took the survivors off. The weather was intensely cold and the sufferings of the shipwrecked crew while awaiting the arrival of the rescuers were awful.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Billy Madden called at the office of the Sporting Clipper to-day and presented a certified check for $5,000 as a deposit for $10,000 in which to back Peter Maher against John L. They are a purgative and blood tonic, they act equally on the bowels, the kidneys and the skin, thus cleansing the system by the natural outlet of the body—they may be called the purgative, stimulant and diuretic medicine. They stimulate the blood so as to enable nature to throw off all morbid humors, and cure disease no matter by what name it may be called. One or two of them taken every night will prove an infallible remedy.

MORGANTOWN.

Notes and Gossip About the University. Personal Mention.

MORGANTOWN, W. VA., Jan. 21.—The second of the series of lectures to be delivered before the English club this winter was delivered this week by Rev. Julius Grammer, D. D., of Baltimore. The subject of his lecture was, "Some Elements of Success in Life." Dr. Grammer is an Episcopal minister, and he preached in the Episcopal church here both morning and evening of last Sunday. His sermons and lectures were well received by the people. The next lecture will be delivered by Dr. A. J. Myers, of the experiment station.

Dr. Hartigan, of the university, has just issued a little book in connection with his work as professor of anatomy, &c. The book also contains a short history of anatomy and surgery, and a synopsis of several of his lectures.

Prof. L. C. White was present at the last two meetings of the geology class. He delivered lectures on the Devonian mollusks and fishes and on the carboniferous deposits in America. He showed, by a series of beautiful and well substantiated theories, that the sun is the origin of all the immense amount of energy stored up in the American coal fields.

The class in geology has been divided into two sections. One is composed of students taking scientific or engineering courses for special work and the other of classical students, who will take a more general course, with little practical work.

The room formerly used as a dissecting room by the medical students has been fitted up as a recitation room for Prof. Atkeson and his classes in agriculture. One of the rooms heretofore used as a museum has been emptied and fitted up for dissecting. New dissecting tables have been provided and also several other needed appliances. A room separate from the University buildings is needed for this purpose.

All the rooms used by the professors in mathematics and engineering have been provided with slate blackboards. A slaty preparation on the plastering was formerly used and the large, smooth sheets of slate now used will give much better satisfaction.

A minstrel troupe, composed of about thirty members, has been organized from among the students. They are practicing and expect to be able to take a trip through the state during the winter vacation.

Instead of the regular meeting of the Epworth League this week, the members of the league were given a reception by Rev. S. H. Day and wife. Over fifty members of the league were present and were highly entertained. Rev. Day is president of the league in this district.

Industrial Items, Personal Gossip and General News Notes.

Wednesday evening a very pleasant reception was held at the city hall, for the purpose of organizing a literary and social club of the young people for the purpose of raising sufficient money to build a new M. E. church. The present church is badly situated and in need of repairs. The young people feel quite an interest in the organization, and will surely push things with enthusiasm and zeal. The reception was given by the ladies, who were in full dress. The committee to receive was composed of Misses Nora Dolbear and Anna Pelly, assisted by Mrs. C. Sinclair and Mrs. Charles Morgan. A short but interesting literary and musical programme was well rendered. Miss Dora Davis explained the object, and the guests adjourned to tables, where lunch was served. A good social time was enjoyed, when the meeting was again called to order and the business of organizing was begun. About sixty members were enrolled. The name selected was the Hope Society. The following were elected: President, Chatham Sinclair; Vice President, Dora Davis; Secretary, J. P. Barger; Assistant Secretary, Anna Pelly; Treasurer, Anna Stewart; Assistant, Mrs. J. P. Barger. On the committee to arrange by-laws were Messrs. Charles Schlad, Albert Snodgrass and Will Hall and Miss Mollie Stewart.
